

Just like you

Where to start: This writing exercise asks kids to think about characters in books or TV shows. Start with a conversation about a favorite character. How would they describe that character? (Encourage the use of words such as brave, serious, sneaky, curious). Does their favorite character have siblings? Live in a city? Ride a bike? Speak different languages at home and at school?

Prompt: What character from a book or TV show are you a little bit like? How?

How to go deeper: What's something this character does that you would like to do? (Use the back of this page to write.)
